

BBRM Class Presents:

Career Night

Wednesday March 17, 2010

The University of Guelph, Kemptville Campus is holding it's annual career night and we are inviting YOU to attend and advertise your profession.

There are options of providing door prizes and/or setting up a booth and presenting for 10 minutes on a career in your segment of the equine industry.

This is an evening created to provide opportunities for students and people of all ages to explore the equine industry and speak with a variety of current professionals. This networking event hopes to spark an interest among those looking for equine-related careers.

The Bachelor of Bio-Resource Management class is a degree program developed to teach students about the equine industry, its business perspectives and current technologies. This class is organizing the evening and inviting several industry professionals to join and present to the students in the other equine programs. With a large variety of career ideas, students will hopefully be guided and inspired towards a specific place in the industry.

Students running the event are also raffling door prizes in hope to raise some money. All proceeds from the draws will go towards the BBRM trip to the World Equestrian Games in Kentucky in September of 2010. Featured sponsors will be advertised around the facility during the event, and will be listed in programs given out by University of Guelph, Kemptville Campus at this event. Sponsors will also be announced throughout the evening.

Please help the BBRM students with your attendance, sponsorship or booth and/or presentation and contact one of the committee members below.

Thank you for your time.
